

Much Ado About Nulling!

With apologies to Shakespeare (“Much Ado About Nothing”), the definition of “nulling” is “nothing”, which is the value the US government assigns to many unemployed citizens when the Bureau of Labor Statistics announces that the current unemployment rate is 8.6 when in fact it is closer to 18 percent. The following information is based on an article by George Stafford, The Nullification of our Christmas Illusions, in the December 15, 2011 The Progress (Caldwell, NJ).

“Reality, as we all ‘realize’, is whatever perception says it is.” When the 8.6% unemployment rate was announced, the stock market soared on this “great news”!

“The perceived reality is that more people are working, but that is not what the numbers mean. In fact, it means that fewer people are working. The law perceives those who nullify their employment assistance as having left the workplace. While still without a job and now without income, these folks are considered invisible for statistical purposes, and are perceived as employed! We accept such pretzel logic because all of our lying leaders agree to it.

The simple truth is that about 18 percent of adult Americans who want to work and need to work are in fact unemployed. Stating the truth would create the wrong impression and have a negative impact on public perception; ergo, the unemployment rate went down.

Another reality that the public is not urged to perceive is that many new jobs are the low paying service kind and that they are replacing higher paying managerial or manufacturing positions.

That many of the unemployed are making less due to wage, hour and overtime reductions is also something not to be admitted.

The headline in The Star Ledger (Newark, NJ) Dec. 18, 2011 stated, “Nearly half of Americans (are) low-income or in poverty; Pounded by the economy, people tumbling out of middle class, census shows”. The article states, “Squeezed by

POLICE EMPLOY PREDATOR DRONE SPY PLANES ON HOMELAND

By: John Connor, Human Resistance Leader

The Los Angeles Times reported in December 2011 that police departments are now using unarmed Predators against US citizens. They also reported that the FBI and Drug Enforcement Administration have used Predators for other “domestic” investigations.

It was reported that the drones belong to US Customs and Border Protection, which operates eight Predators on the country’s northern and southwestern borders to search for illegal immigrants and smugglers. It should also be noted that the previously unreported use of drones to assist local, state and federal law enforcement has occurred without any public acknowledgment or debate.

We have information that Predators are currently being flown in many areas around the country, not only for federal operators, but also for state and local law enforcement and so-called “First Responders”.

As proof that our elected officials are powerless against the US Police State, Rep. Jane Harman (D-Venice), who sat on the House Homeland Security Intelligence subcommittee and served as its chairwoman from 2007 until early this year, said no one ever discussed using Predators to help local police serve warrants or do other basic work.

Notable Quotables

"To be GOVERNED is to be kept in sight, inspected, spied upon, directed, law-driven, numbered, enrolled, indoctrinated, preached at, controlled, estimated, valued, censured, commanded, by Creatures who have neither the right, nor the wisdom, nor the virtue to do so."

To be GOVERNED is to be at every operation, at every transaction, noted, registered, enrolled, taxed, stamped, measured, numbered, assessed, licensed, authorized, admonished, forbidden, reformed, corrected, and punished. That is government; that is its justice; that is its morality."

– Pierre-Joseph Proudhon, (1809-1865) French politician and mutualist philosopher

"In my practice, I've seen how people have allowed their humanity to drain away. Only it happened slowly instead of all at once. They didn't seem to mind... All of us - a little bit - we harden our hearts, grow callous. Only when we have to fight to stay human do we realize how precious it is to us, how dear."

– Dr. Miles Bennell; 1956 "Invasion Of The Body Snatchers"

"Pure truth, like pure gold, has been found unfit for circulation because men have discovered that it is far more convenient to adulterate the truth than to refine themselves."

– Charles Caleb Colton (1780-1832), English cleric, writer and collector, well known for his eccentricities.

Fun Facts

Even Better Than The Real Thing

Hyperreality is used to describe the inability of consciousness to distinguish reality from fantasy, especially in our technologically advanced culture. Most aspects of hyperreality can be thought of as "reality by proxy." Some proponents of hyperreality claim that the natural world in which we live has been increasingly replaced by a copy world, where we seek simulated stimuli and nothing more. Accordingly, it is said that today's mindless consumerism contributes to hyperreality. In other words a certain clothing brand shows that one is fashionable, while driving a specific type of car indicates one's wealth. Hyperreality tricks the human mind into detaching from any real emotional engagement, and to opt instead for artificial simulation and endless reproductions of fundamentally empty appearance. Essentially fulfillment or happiness is found through simulation and imitation of a real thing, rather than any interaction with reality itself. The end result is that these "absolute fakes" seem even better than what they imitate. An early example of hyperreality would be Disneyland, whose fake settings have been created to look "absolutely realistic," taking visitors' imagination to a "fantastic past". This false reality creates an illusion that is more desirable for people than reality. Disneyland works with technology so well that it has created an artificial atmosphere that gives many people more of a sense of being "at home" than the natural world in which we evolved. TV and film in general (especially "reality" TV), which glamorize the mundane using histrionics, now capture huge audiences. Virtual reality on the Internet currently allows for a greater than ever possible simulation of physical reality. Hyperreality offers an "altered state" that is safe, legal and "drug free".

Michael Mukasey

Michael Mukasey served as the 81st Attorney General of the US under Bush II from 2007 to 2009. He was appointed following the resignation of Alberto Gonzales, and became the second Jewish Attorney General in US history. In May 2004, while still a member of the judiciary, Judge Mukasey delivered a speech (which he converted into a Wall Street Journal opinion piece) that defended the USA Patriot Act; the piece also expressed doubt that the FBI engaged in racial profiling of Arabs and criticized the American Library Association for condemning the Patriot Act. During confirmation hearings, Mukasey refused to state an unequivocal legal position on the interrogation technique known as waterboarding. Mukasey has a close relationship with former NYC mayor Rudy Giuliani, whom he has known since working at the same law firm in the early 1970s. In 2008, he made some public comments defending Bush's warrantless wiretapping program by claiming that the National Security Agency intercepted a call between Afghanistan and one of the alleged 9/11 hijackers. In a subsequent letter to Mukasey, House Judiciary Committee Chairman John Conyers questioned whether any such phone call had ever actually occurred and, if so, why the government hadn't been able to use its then-existing legal authority and technological capabilities to monitor it. Michael Mukasey's son Marc Mukasey was a partner in former mayor Giuliani's law firm. The firm represented Verizon, one of the telecom firms that was sued for cooperating with Bush's warrantless surveillance program.

rising living costs, a record number of Americans—nearly 1 in 2—have fallen into poverty or are scraping by on earnings that classify them as low-income."

One can readily understand why the "Occupy" movement is spreading nationwide. The above cartoon shows that the 1% of our population, in cooperation with corrupt government allies, has been able to take jobs out of the US and is destroying the middle class in order to make America a third world nation.

Citizens must rise up against their oppressors and leadership within the "Occupy Movement". This is sorely needed in order to replace the present government with a new government "of, by and for the people" that will restore our constitutional rights in order that this nation can finally become a Republic instead of the present fascist state.

Last month's headline suggested that the Occupy Movement accept and implement the new "pledge of allegiance": "I pledge allegiance to the flag and Constitution of the Sovereign United States of America, and to the Republic for which they stand, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

In summary, our government leaders are incompetent liars! S

Police Employ Predator Drone

For years, Homeland Security officials have been using imagery from military satellites to assist in their bogus domestic terrorism investigations. Congress blocked the proposal on grounds it would violate the Posse Comitatus Act, which bars the military from taking a police role on US soil. Recent revelations by the Associated Press that the New York City Police Department has joined forces with the CIA confirm that the Shadow Government is much more powerful and lawless than our so-called "real" government.

Human Resistance Please Note: Predators fly out of earshot and out of sight. A Predator B can watch a target for 20 hours nonstop, far longer than any police helicopter or manned aircraft.

We have also received reports that US police agencies are now armed with shoulder-mounted lasers that can emit a blinding wall of light capable of repelling Occupy Protests. This is in preparation for mass civil unrest on US soil. S

The Church Committee – The Church Committee is the common term for the United States Senate Select Committee to Study Governmental Operations with Respect to Intelligence Activities, a US Senate committee chaired by Senator Frank Church in 1975. A precursor to the US Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, this committee investigated intelligence gathering by the CIA and FBI for illegality after nefarious activities had been revealed during the Watergate affair. The Committee uncovered, among many other things, that the CIA had violated its charter to perform only the gathering of intelligence, through, for example, the assassinations of Allende in Chile and Mossadegh in Iran, as well as the politically motivated killings of leaders and revolutionaries in Central and South America, Africa, the Middle East, and East Asia. The list of shocking activities uncovered by the committee was tremendous, and included the declassification of a "heart attack gun" the CIA had made for use in killing someone without detection. Cancer; car, skiing or boating "accidents"; apparent suicides; heart attacks, and plain old shootings were common assassination methods. Although recorded in full in the congressional record, the mainstream media, and referred to in official policies, the committee's findings remain largely unmentioned in American schools and history classes. Most of the American public has not even heard of these revelations, let alone understood that their veracity has been confirmed. It is still common for people to refer to any of these assassinations as a joke or a baseless conspiracy hypothesis.
